The Democratic Club of New York will, to-night, through the speeches to be delivered at its Thomas Jefferson banquet, strive to indicate the issues upon which, in its judgment, the Presidential campaign of 1900 ought to be fought out.

Two possible candidates for the Presidential nomination will be at the guests' table at the Metropolitan Opera House, one, former Senator Arthur Pue Gorman, of Maryland, though not down on the list of orators, is expected to be called upon for a talk on national issues.

Former Justice Augustus Van Wyck, who ran for Governor last year, is to speak on "State Issues." According to a statement by a confidential friend, the Judge proposes to outline in his speech the kind of platform the Eastern Democrats think should be adopted by the next Democratic National Convention. This friend, in a written statement, further declared, "Judge Van Wyck's speech will crystallize the opposition to Bryan all over the country."

Richard Croker declined last night to speak at all of the Presidential possibilities which might be the outcome of to-night's event, but contended himself by saying that everything is nearly ready for the dinner, and that it will be the biggest affair of the kind yet witnessed in this city.

All of yesterday and last night the various committees on arrangements were engaged in perfecting the preparations. Perhaps the busiest man was Superintendent David Ross, of the Democratic Club, who spent nearly the entire day at the Metropolitan Opera House directing the operations of over forty cooks, who in the big temporary kitchen were fashioning the delicious dishes upon tons of raw material. The superintendent had orders to provide for 2,000 people.

While Ross and his deputies were at the cooking table, an army of carpenters and gas and electric fitters were engaged in equipping the interior of the opera house. Work as hard as they could they were unable even at a late hour last night to get things in shape for the dinner. This morning Thorley and a regiment of artists will transform the opera house auditorium into a huge banquet hall. The house has already given an idea of the elaborate floral and other decorations ordered. Late this afternoon everything will be ready for the guests, who, according to the invitation cards, are to sit down to dinner at 6:30 o'clock.

Richard Croker has advised every Tammany member of the Senate and Assembly that it is his duty to stick to his post at Albany to-night, in order to prevent, if possible, any more of the Platt machine's jobs going through the Legislature. This was probably caused by the absence of many of the legislators who had planned to attend the dinner.

The full dress rehearsal of waiters, cooks, wine servers, etc., who will officiate at the $10 dinner will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock. There will be 130 waiters for the main floor, 25 for the boxes, 61 wine servers, 2 chief cooks and 40 assistants.

BRYAN WILL BE HERE SATURDAY.

Colonel W. J. Bryan, who is to deliver the principal speech at the Chicago platform Democratic dinner, will stop at his former headquarters, the Hotel Barthold, on his arrival here Saturday.

Chairman Brewster yesterday received a letter from O. H. P. Belmont, brother of Mr. P. Belmont, president of the Democratic Club, accepting an invitation to the Bryan dinner. It expressed great pleasure at the chance of being present.

The Social Reform Club will attend the Workingmen's Jeffersonian dinner at the evening in a body. Edward Kelly is president of this club. Among the members going to the dinner are Bishop Potter, Lyman Abbott, Felix Adler, Samuel Gompers,
